StimulusATLANTIC SEABOARD, NERVE
CENTER OF AMERICAN
BUSINESS, SHOWS EN-COURAGEMENT

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)
Boston, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Atlantic seaboard, industrial and financial nerve center of America, may be compared to a convalescent during his first attempts to get out of bed.

This was revealed in a week of inquiry into business centers whose leaders ranged from the "restrained optimists" of Philadelphia to those "rubbing hands" in New York in anticipation of bigger business to come.

On October 5 the patient wondered why he was allowed to live. Prices reached the bottom-most point of two dark years.

Then the doctors told him he was getting better if he only knew it. The Hoover $500,000,000 bank credit pool proved another stimulant. The home financing bank plan also helped. With a few pats of encouragement the patient felt like a new man and leaped out of bed.

"This is going to be nothing at all," he thought as he took his first confident steps.

Wheat and cotton began to shoot upward. Wall street prices made striking gains.

New England has been steadied by the textile industry which went through much of its readjustment before the depression. It therefore could meet the changed conditions more satisfactorily than many other industries.

Sentiment Is Improving
Consumer demand both in textiles and shoes has been the brightest factor, though some recent curtailment due to accumulating stocks has taken place. The end of the textile strike at Lawrence has helped, though there have been pay cuts again at Lowell. Some Fall River mills are closing down temporarily.

Nevertheless general sentiment is improving.

Department store sales in dollars are under those of last year though some merchants report greater volume; they emphasize that reduced prices tend to make total sales figures misleading unless volume also is taken into consideration.

In Philadelphia business men are restraining their optimism while feeling that first signs of improvement are appearing. Metal industries are employing 12 per cent more than in July. E. G. Budd Manufacturing company, operating a large body plant, reports overtime in some departments; tool and textile machine shops are doing more business, though a seasonal drop in the radio industry has thrown members of metal workers out of jobs.

Different in New York
The state employment office reports calls for skilled workers exceeding anything in the last 18 months. But there are an estimated 250,000 idle in Philadelphia; the unemployment relief committee predicts it may reach 300,000 during the winter.

Retail buying is seasonally a little better but department store executives look out on many aisles still almost deserted. Several than ever. Gold reserves have been completed but tenants are hard to find. In spite of some improvement, Philadelphia business men are not over-enthusiastic. But they never are.

It is different in New York. Executives are beginning to rub their hands briskly. They are as mercurial as the stock market and while they last week saw a decline they are not yet ready to take it seriously.

Gold Reserves Rising
Many, as in the case of Remington-Rand company, are receiving favorable reports of increased demand from their branches. Christmas trade and millions in Christmas savings are counted on to run up retail buying.

Above all, the dollar appears to have come through the recent attack from abroad stronger than ever. Gold reserves are rising and hoarding appears checked. This may mean little out in the country but it is vital in the New York nerve center.

Industry Can Recover Through Own Efforts, Ritchie Says in Denouncing 'Santa Claus' Tactics by Government
Pittsburgh, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The federal government should not be asked to play "Santa Claus" to a distressed industry, particularly the coal industry, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Maryland, said today in an address at the opening session of the third international coal conference at Carnegie Institute.

"Self-help, self-regulation and self-control" will do far more to cure the ills of the industry—over-production and intense competition—than government control or government ownership, Governor Ritchie said, characterizing the latter as a "species of Communism."

Some modernization of the anti-trust laws to make them conform with changed economic conditions is virtually the only way the government can regulate "key industries," including the coal industry, Ritchie said.

What additional regulation of the coal industry is necessary should be left to the states, he said.

"With the removal of private property and industrial gain in whole as the Communists advocate, or by piece-meal as our government ownership proponents advocate, the affairs of man are bound to become bureaucratic and sterile and progress halts," Ritchie said.

"I oppose government ownership not so much because it is an invasion of private property, but because it invades an area that should be kept free for the competitive and creative forces of life to operate in. It removes those inducements which have urged and carried forward not only business, but the human race itself."

WILL COME TUESDAY

Showers are probable for tonight and tomorrow in Minnesota and the northwest, the United States weather bureau said today.

It will be somewhat warmer tonight but will be cold Tuesday, the forecast said. The mercury which hovered around the 50 degree mark Sunday, dropped to 47 this morning and then mounted rapidly throughout the day.

Pocatello, Idaho, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The heaviest snow storm of the season whipped across Idaho today, grounding mail planes and in some sections blocking highways.

A southbound airmail plane from Idaho Falls was forced to turn back when the pilot's vision was blurred by driving snow. The plane landed safely at Idaho Falls. A northbound plane was held to the ground here.

Railroad officials reported all trains into this city were behind schedule.

ASK CIGARETTE LEVY, HIKE IN INCOME TAX FOR RELIEF FUND
Madison, Wis., Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—A cigarette tax and increased state income taxes were recommended today by the legislative interim committee on unemployment to raise an $8,000,000 unemployment relief fund.

The recommendations will be placed before the special session of the legislature when it convenes Nov. 24.

A compulsory 8-hour day in public and private work and unemployment insurance requiring contributions by employers only were also recommended.

Local governments would receive $6,000,000 of the total to be used for direct aid or labor on public works.

RAIL HEADS TO MEET ROAD EXECUTIVES
Cleveland, O., Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Heads of 21 railroad labor organizations will meet with nine railroad presidents at New York Thursday to discuss the shorter work day and other unemployment relief measures, according to an announcement of David B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, and president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Robertson declined to disclose whether wage relations would be a subject of discussion at the joint conference.

Robertson's organization has actively supported the proposals of the six hour work day as a means of curtailing unemployment in the industry. He said 350,000 of the 1,250,000 organized railroad employees are at present unemployed.

Golden Rule Store Founder
Dies in St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Jacob Dittenhofer, 86, last of the three founders of the Golden Rule store in St. Paul, died at his home last night from old age. He retired from active business six years ago. He came to St. Paul in 1886 and with the late W. H. and Joseph Elsing, his brothers-in-law, organized the store.

GRANDI ENROUTE TO CAPITAL AFTER AIR
TRIP IS CANCELLEDITALIAN FOREIGN MINISTER TO ABANDON FLIGHT WITH LINDBERGH

New York, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—One of the world's youngest diplomats, Dino Grandi, foreign minister for Italy, came to the United States today to discuss international problems with President Hoover.

Cancel Flight to Capital
The thick fog prevented Grandi, his beautiful wife, and members of the official party from flying to Washington with Colonel Lindbergh in the 48-passenger "Caribbean Clipper." Arrangements had been made for the flight and Lindbergh was called back from the south to whisk the Italian diplomat to Washington. But the fog that held over the metropolitan area made the flight impossible.

Instead, it was arranged for Grandi to go to Washington by train, arriving in the capital between 5 and 5:30 p. m. There had been in advance some fear of anti-fascist demonstrations should he debark in New York and travel through the city. Anti-fascist and communists clashed here last night in the course of a meeting where Grandi had been called a "distinguished assassin."

Working for Disarmament
Both Stimson and Grandi are working for real disarmament. Both favor a revision of post-war treaties. So on each question they stand opposed to France. Hence Grandi's visit, following that of Laval, takes on a peculiar significance.

While Laval was here, Stimson sounded him out on the prospect of ending the Franco-Italian naval dispute before the disarmament conference. He got little encouragement. Probably he will now approach the problem anew from the Italian angle.

In his talk with the press, Grandi expressed regret at the cancellation of the flight to Washington.

"I hoped to have the great pleasure of being piloted by Col. Lindbergh on this beautiful new ship the Caribbean Clipper," he said. "Your Lindbergh is for me something more than a man; he is a symbol of youth and courage."

VERA STUCK INJURED AS HER FATHER AVERTS HEADON CRASH WITH ANOTHER CAR
Caught in a pocket as he tried to pass another car on the highway and avoid crashing headon into an approaching car, Oscar Stuck, farmer, Route 6, Brainerd, jammed the brakes of his car, lost control and plunged into a ditch three and a half miles east of Brainerd today.

His 13-year-old daughter, Vera Stuck, was cut about the head by flying glass but an examination by a Brainerd doctor revealed her cuts were not serious.

Stuck and his daughter were enroute to Brainerd at the time of the accident. Minnesota Highway Patrol officers who investigated reported that he was travelling at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour. In crashing into the ditch the front axle was bent and the windshield shattered. The accident occurred on State Trunk Highway 18.

Boy Seriously Injured
A five-year old Park Rapids boy, Palmer Vaadeland, was reported in a serious condition with a fractured skull in the Park Rapids hospital today following a serious accident. State Trunk Highway 34 Saturday.

The child was riding with Ed Kood, 19, in a small roadster a mile and a half east of Park Rapids when hit by a sedan driven by Benjamin Glantz, Park Rapids storekeeper. The roadster was demolished.

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Japanese army fought its way to within striking distance of Anganchi today after a combined artillery, infantry and bombing plane attack smashed through Chinese forces on the Nonni river front.

Extensive fighting in the Nonni sector was resumed shortly after dawn, Japanese reports from the war zone said. The opposing armies were engaged over a wide front south of Anganchi, the key to Chinese General Ma.

Minneapolis, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—A Chinese student at the University of Minnesota today left his books and research work to return to his native city, Mukden, in Manchuria, where he will take part in movements against the Japanese.

The student, Wei Cheng-Chang, contends that news dispatches have given a distorted view of the Chinese-Japanese troubles. Wei Cheng-Chang admits he has had no military training but believes he can be of service in some other way than as a common soldier.

Chan-Shan's defense of Tsitsihar, which is within the Soviet sphere of influence.

Later, a Japanese communiqué announced Chinese cavalry had cut communications between Tsitsihar and the Japanese troops in the Nonni sector.

Tsitsihar, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—General Ma Chan-Shan, mysterious and powerful commander of the Chinese army in North Manchuria, went out to assume personal direction of warfare against the Japanese today with a declaration that he would fight until the last man had fallen.

As I talked with this short, slender military leader, whose stubborn opposition to the Japanese has led to grave complications in Manchuria he was constantly receiving reports of the fighting 30 miles away. Despite the gravity of the military situation, General Ma spoke with fatalistic calm as he drove home these points:

1. That Japan is beginning a "great offensive" which may result in the bombing of Tsitsihar.

2. That the Chinese "are not strong enough to fight, but we must hold our ground until death."

3. That the Chinese have not been aided and do not want the aid of Soviet Russia.

4. That the Chinese want the League of Nations to intervene.

Gesticulating as he offered me refreshments and helped himself, he explained at once that his army of 15,000 men is receiving absolutely no assistance from any foreign power.

"We want," he continued, "the help of the League of Nations, not of the Russians. If we receive the league's aid, that may prevent a Japanese victory. Our casualties have been more than 700—400 killed and 300 wounded. Today I received from a Japanese military emissary, an ultimatum urging me to resign if I want to avoid trouble. I believe the Japanese want Chang Hai-Pen to succeed me as governor of Heilungkiang, but they haven't made that point clear."

Chang Hai-Pen is leader of the pro-Japanese forces which have recently been threatening a factional war against Ma.

"I cannot say whether an aerial bombardment of Tsitsihar is impending or not," Ma continued, "but I am convinced we face a big offensive immediately, and I think Consul Shimidzu departed in anticipation of it."

Smoot Sees Hike in Taxes by Congress
Washington, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, who is chairman of the finance committee when republicans control the senate, said today that congress would enact this winter legislation to increase taxes.

Smoot said he was not convinced as to the method of increased taxation but he mentioned the sales tax, sponsored also by Sen. Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, "as the easiest and surest way of raising our revenue."

HOOVER KIN ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA
Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—C. Van Leavitt, 57-year-old brother-in-law of President Hoover, and C. R. Dailey, a Santa Monica grocery store proprietor, today pleaded not guilty to charges of possession of liquor.

The men with their attorneys appeared before Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer at a preliminary hearing and asked for jury trials.

Leavitt's trial was set for police court on Nov. 24 while that of Dailey was scheduled for Dec. 7.

The hearing occupied only a few minutes and was marked chiefly by excitement on the part of newspaper photographers when Judge Spencer ordered them to "lock up your boxes."

Parents Go to Aid of Trunk Slayer

Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell of Darlington, Ind., are shown here on the way to aid their daughter, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, who is facing a double murder charge at Phoenix, Ariz., in the slaying of two women friends. Although Mrs. McKinnell has been an invalid for years, she risked her life to make the long journey to see her daughter.

MARKET INTEREST IN GRAIN RISES
New York, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Interest in markets turned to wheat again today and that commodity spurred more than 2 cents a bushel, taking other grains up with it while stocks reacted fractions to 4 points and silver futures made the maximum drop of 3 cents permitted by the New York futures market.

More than a dozen issues made new lows for many years, half of them records. The majority were in the railroad group. Others were furnished by Radio-Keith-Orpheum and companies interested in it.

High grade industrials slipped off; silver shares broke on the drop in silver metal; harvester and mail order issues rose with wheat; coppers and oils sagged; motors held steady.

Movements on the stock exchange were irregular.

Bar silver dropped 2 1/2 cents an ounce or seven American cents.

The break in silver was immediately reflected in such issues as International Silver, U. S. Smelting and American Smelting, all of which dipped a point or more. International Silver preferred was down 7 points.

LEAGUE EFFECTS ONE YEAR PACT WITH 45
NATIONS AGREEINGFINAL EFFORT TO HALT MAN-CHURIAN HOSTILITIES BEING MADE BY COUNCIL

Geneva, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The League of Nations today officially proclaimed a one-year armament truce effective November 1.

Fifty-five signatures have been received to the truce, including the United States.

Council Makes Final
Effort for Peace

Paris, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The council of the League of Nations convened today for its final effort to prevent war in Manchuria, the most critical test the league has ever faced.

The meeting started at 4:07 p. m. Leading statesmen of the great powers gathered in the "clock room" of the foreign office, where the Kellogg treaty outlawing war was signed a few years ago.

Although the United States is not a member, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes came to Paris from London to stand by with advice or assistance.

As the council met, the United Press was advised that a definite plan to end the dispute had been drawn up for presentation. The plan suggests that the council ask the Chinese to appoint a new "war lord" in Manchuria who will be strong enough to suppress banditry and who will be acceptable to Japan, which will lend him its moral support.

Project Considered Feasible
The project was considered more feasible than the appointment of a military commission of league members, which, while apportioning the blame for the conflict, would be unable to ensure the security of Japanese lives and property. Such a solution would enable the Japanese to continue the peaceful development of Manchuria.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, opened the session as acting president. He began by recalling to the assembled delegates the obligations of their governments to preserve peace as members of the league.

Briand assured the delegates that the council "will continue to seek a solution which will be equitable without tendentious references." Briand was seized with a violent fit of coughing during his reading.

Dawes was not present. The only Americans in the council enclosure were Dr. Westel Willoughby, adviser to Sze, and Arthur Sweetser of Boston, a member of the league secretariat.

REPORT PROGRESS TOWARD WATERWAY PACT WITH CANADA
Washington, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Negotiations for development of the St. Lawrence seaway moved a step nearer completion today when the state department announced that the United States and Canada will immediately convene their joint engineering board to iron out technical problems.

The state department announcement followed a lengthy conference Saturday between Secretary of State Stimson and W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister.

Discuss New York Angle
Chief of the problems to be considered, it was understood, is whether one or two dams shall be constructed.

The United States-Canadian negotiations have dealt with joint development of ocean-to-lakes navigation and tapping of the St. Lawrence's hydro-electric resources. It is expected these conversations will be continued until the two countries draft a treaty of agreement on plans and distribution of costs of the work.

New York state's demand that its water-power rights should be respected, was given cognizance in the department statement.

To Weigh State Proposals
"It was stated by the representatives of both countries," the communiqué said, "that they proposed to keep in touch with the respective provincial and state authorities in the consideration of the power features of the development."

A 25-foot channel from Montreal to Lake Ontario and a 30-foot depth for permanent structures, such as locks, was recommended in the original report of the joint engineering board in 1925. A probable expenditure of around $400,000,000 was estimated.

ANNOUNCEMENT ENDS DOUBT OF FREE TRADE ABOLITION
London, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—An immediate tariff bill will be presented in the house of commons, Sir Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, announced in the house today.

The announcement ended the doubt over the national government's decision to abandon Great Britain's traditional policy of free trade. He explained the bill to be introduced would grant the board of trade the power to issue orders imposing an import duty not exceeding 100 per cent on the value of articles to which the orders apply.

The bill will be pushed through at once, Runciman said, and he hoped it would receive the royal assent by next Friday.

The bill would apply for six months. Agricultural products will not be included in its provisions, Runciman said. The bill will deal mainly with manufactured articles, and also with iron and steel in some form.

The bill is aimed, Runciman told the house, "to preserve some of our foreign purchasing capacity in essentials."

Bar silver dropped 2 1/2 cents an ounce or seven American cents.

The break in silver was immediately reflected in such issues as International Silver, U. S. Smelting and American Smelting, all of which dipped a point or more. International Silver preferred was down 7 points.

His 13-year-old daughter, Vera Stuck, was cut about the head by flying glass but an examination by a Brainerd doctor revealed her cuts were not serious.

Stuck and his daughter were enroute to Brainerd at the time of the accident. Minnesota Highway Patrol officers who investigated reported that he was travelling at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour. In crashing into the ditch the front axle was bent and the windshield shattered. The accident occurred on State Trunk Highway 18.

Boy Seriously Injured
A five-year-old Park Rapids boy, Palmer Vandeland, was reported in a serious condition with a fractured skull in the Park Rapids hospital today following a serious accident on State Trunk Highway 34 Saturday.

The child was riding with Ed Rood, 19, in a small roadster a mile and a half east of Park Rapids when hit by a sedan driven by Benjamin Glantz, Park Rapids storekeeper. The roadster was demolished.

SITUATION VIEWED AS CRITICAL WITH SPIRITED FIGHTING

JAP CONSULAR SOURCES REPORT TENSION WITH RUSSIA INCREASING

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Japanese army fought its way to within striking distance of Anganchi today after a combined artillery, infantry and bombing plane attack smashed through Chinese forces on the Nonni river front.

Extensive fighting in the Nonni sector was resumed shortly after dawn, Japanese reports from the war zone said. The opposing armies were engaged over a wide front south of Anganchi, the key to Chinese General Ma

Minneapolis, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—A Chinese student at the University of Minnesota today left his books and research work to return to his native city, Mukden, in Manchuria, where he will take part in movements against the Japanese.

The student, Wei Cheng-Chang, contends that news dispatches have given a distorted view of the Chinese-Japanese troubles. Wei Cheng-Chang admits he has had no military training but believes he can be of service in some other way than as a common soldier.

Chan-Shan's defense of Tsitsihar, which is within the Soviet sphere of influence.

Later, a Japanese communique announced Chinese cavalry had cut communications between Taonan and the Japanese troops in the Nonni sector. Taonan is on the railroad connecting the Japanese base in the south with the Nonni troops and severance of communications would cut off the advance lines of Japanese from their base.

The situation was described as "critical." Reports relayed from Harbin said Japanese troops were continuing an advance against Chinese, supported by cavalry.

Advices to official Chinese sources claimed a late attack by the Japanese had been repulsed after severe fighting. One message quoted General Ma as saying 500 Japanese were killed, but official and press advices to Japanese headquarters here said only about 10 Japanese were killed and a dozen wounded.

Japanese consular sources said tension with Soviet Russia was increasing and charged that many Chinese, Korean and other communist partisans had left Soviet territory to aid the Chinese in Heilungkiang.

Virtually all Japanese officials and residents of Tsitsihar evacuated Harbin, apparently in anticipation of an attack by air.

The situation was further complicated by confirmation of reports of the presence of Henry Pu-Yi, former emperor of China, in Mukden. The frail, bespectacled youth arrived Friday. It has been said repeatedly that he would attempt to restore the Manchurian dynasty in Manchuria, under Japanese protection.

Smoot Sees Hike in Taxes by Congress

Washington, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, who is chairman of the finance committee when republicans control the senate, said today that congress would enact this winter legislation to increase taxes.

Smoot said he was not convinced as to the method of increased taxation but he mentioned the sales tax, sponsored also by Sen. Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, "as the easiest and surest way of raising our revenue."

HOOVER KIN ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA

TRIAL OF LEAVITT AND DAILEY IS SET FOR DECEMBER 7

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—C. Van Leavitt, 57-year-old brother-in-law of President Hoover, and C. R. Dailey, a Santa Monica grocery store proprietor, today pleaded not guilty to charges of possession of liquor.

The men with their attorneys appeared before Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer at a preliminary hearing and asked for jury trials.

Leavitt's trial was set for police court on Nov. 24 while that of Dailey was scheduled for Dec. 7.

The hearing occupied only a few minutes and was marked chiefly by excitement on the part of newspaper photographers when Judge Spencer ordered them to "lock up your boxes."

Parents Go to Aid of Trunk Slayer

Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell of Darlington, Ind., are shown here on the way to aid their daughter, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, who is facing a double murder charge at Phoenix, Ariz., in the slaying of two women friends. Although Mrs. McKinnell has been an invalid for years, she risked her life to make the long journey to see her daughter.

Powerful Commander of Chinese Army in Manchuria Hurls Defy at Japan; Assumes Charge of Troops

(World Copyright, 1931, by U. P. All rights reserved; reproduction prohibited)

Tsitsihar, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—General Ma Chan-Shan, mysterious and powerful commander of the Chinese army in North Manchuria, went out to assume personal direction of warfare against the Japanese today with a declaration that he would fight until the last man had fallen.

As I talked with this short, slender military leader, whose stubborn opposition to the Japanese has led to grave complications in Manchuria, he was constantly receiving reports of the fighting 30 miles away. Despite the gravity of the military situation, General Ma spoke with fatalistic calm as he drove home these points:

1. That Japan is beginning a "great offensive" which may result in the bombing of Tsitsihar.

2. That the Chinese "are not strong enough to fight, but we must hold our ground until death."

3. That the Chinese have not been aided and do not want the aid of Soviet Russia.

4. That the Chinese want the League of Nations to intervene. Gesticulating as he offered me refreshments and helped himself, he explained at once that his army of 15,000 men is receiving absolutely no assistance from any foreign power.

"We want," he continued, "the help of the League of Nations, not of the Russians. If we receive the league's aid, that may prevent a Japanese victory."

"Our casualties have been more than 700—400 killed and 300 wounded. Today I received from a Japanese military emissary, an ultimatum urging me to resign if I want to avoid trouble. I believe the Japanese want Chang Hui-Pen to succeed me as governor of Heilungkiang, but they haven't made that point clear."

Chang Hui-Pen is leader of the pro-Japanese forces which have recently been threatening a factional war against Ma.

"I cannot say whether an aerial bombardment of Tsitsihar is impending or not," Ma continued, "but I am convinced we face a big offensive immediately, and I think Consul Shimidzu departed in anticipation of it."

MARKET INTEREST IN GRAIN RISES NEW TARIFF BILL

STOCK REACTS AS WHEAT SPURTS TWO CENTS

New York, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Interest in markets turned to wheat again today and that commodity spurred more than 2 cents a bushel, taking other grains up with it while stocks reacted fractions to 4 points and silver futures made the maximum drop of 3 cents permitted by the New York futures market.

More than a dozen issues made new lows for many years, half of them records. The majority were in the railroad group. Others were furnished by Radio-Keith-Orpheum and companies interested in it.

High grade industrials slipped off; silver shares broke on the drop in silver metal; harvester and mail order issues rose with wheat; coppers and oils sagged; motors held steady.

Movements on the stock exchange were irregular.

Bar silver dropped 2 1/2 cents an ounce or seven American cents.

The break in silver was immediately reflected in such issues as International Silver, U. S. Smelting and American Smelting, all of which dipped a point or more. International Silver preferred was down 7 points.

ENGLAND TO DRAFT NEW TARIFF BILL

ANNOUNCEMENT ENDS DOUBT OF FREE TRADE ABOLITION

London, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—An immediate tariff bill will be presented in the house of commons, Sir Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, announced in the house today.

The announcement ended the doubt over the national government's decision to abandon Great Britain's traditional policy of free trade. He explained the bill to be introduced would grant the board of trade the power to issue orders imposing an import duty not exceeding 100 per cent on the value of articles to which the orders apply.

The bill will be pushed through at once, Runciman said, and he hoped it would receive the royal assent by next Friday.

The bill would apply for six months. Agricultural products will not be included in its provisions, Runciman said. The bill will deal mainly with manufactured articles, and also with iron and steel in some form.

The bill is aimed, Runciman told the house, "to preserve some of our foreign purchasing capacity in essentials."

LEAGUE EFFECTS ONE YEAR PACT WITH 45 NATIONS AGREEING

FINAL EFFORT TO HALT MANCHURIAN HOSTILITIES BEING MADE BY COUNCIL

Geneva, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The League of Nations today officially proclaimed a one-year armament truce effective November 1.

Fifty-five signatures have been received to the truce, including the United States.

Council Makes Final Effort for Peace

Paris, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The council of the League of Nations convened today for its final effort to prevent war in Manchuria, the most critical test the league has ever faced.

The meeting started at 4:07 p. m. Leading statesmen of the great powers gathered in the "clock room" of the foreign office, where the Kellogg treaty outlawing war was signed a few years ago.

Although the United States is not a member, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes came to Paris from London to stand by with advice or assistance.

As the council met, the United Press was advised that a definite plan to end the dispute had been drawn up for presentation. The plan suggests that the council ask the Chinese to appoint a new "war lord" in Manchuria who will be strong enough to suppress banditry and who will be acceptable to Japan, which will lend him its moral support.

Project Considered Feasible

The project was considered more feasible than the appointment of a military commission of league members, which, while apportioning the blame for the conflict, would be unable to ensure the security of Japanese lives and property. Such a solution would enable the Japanese to continue the peaceful development of Manchuria.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, opened the session as acting president. He began by recalling to the assembled delegates the obligations of their governments to preserve peace as members of the league.

Briand assured the delegates that the council "will continue to seek a solution which will be equitable without tendentious references." Briand was seized with a violent fit of coughing during his reading.

Dawes was not present. The only Americans in the council enclosure were Dr. Westel Willoughby, adviser to Sze, and Arthur Sweetser of Boston, a member of the league secretariat.

REPORT PROGRESS TOWARD WATERWAY PACT WITH CANADA

JOINT ENGINEERING BOARD TO IRON OUT TECHNICAL PROBLEMS AT ONCE

Washington, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Negotiations for development of the St. Lawrence seaway moved a step nearer completion today when the state department announced that the United States and Canada will immediately reconvene their joint engineering board to iron out technical problems.

The state department announcement followed a lengthy conference Saturday between Secretary of State Stimson and W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister.

Discuss New York Angle
Chief of the problems to be considered, it was understood, is whether one or two dams shall be constructed. The United States-Canadian negotiations have dealt with joint development of ocean-to-lakes navigation and tapping of the St. Lawrence's hydro-electric resources. It is expected these conversations will be continued until the two countries draft a treaty of agreement on plans and distribution of costs of the work.

New York state's demand that its water-power rights should be respected, was given cognizance in the department statement.

To Weigh State Proposals

"It was stated by the representatives of both countries," the communique said, "that they proposed to keep in touch with the respective provincial and state authorities in the consideration of the power features of the development."

A 25-foot channel from Montreal to Lake Ontario and a 30-foot depth for permanent structures, such as locks, was recommended in the original report of the joint engineering board in 1925. A probable expenditure of around $400,000,000 was estimated.

YEAR AROUND ROADS HAVE SNOW FENCING POSTS ALREADY IN

PROTECTION TO BE GIVEN
ROADS; 32 MILES FENCE ON STATE HIGHWAYS HERE

All year around open roads will be protected again this winter by snow fencing as two highway departments with headquarters here had completed work on the driving of posts in the ground where the fencing is to be erected.

After frost has firmly imbedded the posts the fencing will be put up.

The absence of any appreciable amount of snow last winter making snow fences only a reminder of winter will not have any effect on the plans of the State Highway or Crow Wing county highway departments this year. They are going ahead with preparations to protect the highways from snow in anticipation of an average snowfall and winter weather conditions.

The county highway department will place eight miles of snowfencing on county and state aid roads while the Minnesota Highway Department will erect 32 miles of snow fencing in the district. In addition many township boards have purchased snowfencing to protect township roads.

The state department cut down its amount of snowfencing in the district by 10,000 feet, selling 5,000 feet of fence to Hubbard county and 5,000 feet to Cass county, it was learned here.

Congressman Maas Condemns Prohibition

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Congressman Melvin J. Maas of St. Paul last night told the St. Paul Turnverein anniversary dinner that he believed 400 of the 435 representatives in the lower house drank despite prohibition laws.

"If congress voted the way it drinks, prohibition would be repealed by an overwhelming majority," the congressman said. "Prohibition is the major reason for the power of the gangster, chiefly because through its failure the gangster has received undreamed of profits which may be used to corrupt public officials."

Funeral services will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 2 p. m. Tuesday for Rease S. Plummer, who passed away Saturday at 1:30 p. m. Rev. A. G. Patterson will officiate. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

Plummer died after a lingering illness at his home on Route 5, Brainerd. He was born August 5, 1872 at Beaver Dam, Kentucky and came to Brainerd in the year 1912. He was married to Miss Margaret Peterson, Dec. 11, 1913. He was engaged in carpenter work for several years here.

Surviving besides his widow are two children, Evelyn, 17, Chester, 15, residing at home; two brothers, Harvey and Richard Plummer and one sister, Mrs. Amanda Sorrels, all of Beaver Dam, Ky.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN TODAY'S BUSINESS

By United Press
New York—Construction contracts in metropolitan New York during October were 33 per cent larger than in September, according to F. W. Dodge Corp.

Cleveland—Confidence in the upturn in the steel industry gained during the past week, according to "Steel." New York—The "Loew-down," house organ of Loew's, Inc., said reports from around the circuit indicate the business tide has turned.

Philadelphia—Shipments of anthracite during October amounted to 5,194,968 tons, an increase of 1,822,042 tons over September, according to the Anthracite Bureau of Information.

Detroit—Detroit Edison Co. reported net income for the year ended Oct. 31 of $11,342,649, against $11,324,121 in the preceding year.

New York—Coty, Inc., and subsidiaries reported net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30 was $188,001, or 12 cents a share, against $118,504, or 8 cents a share, in the preceding quarter.

Toronto, Ont.—Value of Ontario gold mine output for October was $3,748,100, against $3,941,432 in October, 1930.

Devil Exit

A church in Cornwall, England, has a door built especially for the devil to sneak out with downcast eyes when denounced by converts. The "devil door" is an old custom harkening back to the days of the "witches."

Duluth Man Freed in Stabbing Affray

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Henry Olson, 23, Duluth, was clear today of any guilt in the stabbing to death of his brother, Isaac, 36, a coroner's jury verdict said.

The verdict was returned Saturday after Henry Olson admitted the killing but said it was done in self defense. Isaac was killed Thursday during a brawl.

YEAR AROUND ROADS HAVE SNOW FENCING POSTS ALREADY IN

PROTECTION TO BE GIVEN ROADS; 32 MILES FENCE ON STATE HIGHWAYS HERE

All year around open roads will be protected again this winter by snow fencing as two highway departments with headquarters here had completed work on the driving of posts in the ground where the fencing is to be erected.

After frost has firmly imbedded the posts the fencing will be put up.

The absence of any appreciable amount of snow last winter making snow fences only a reminder of winter will not have any effect on the plans of the State Highway or Crow Wing county highway departments this year. They are going ahead with preparations to protect the highways from snow in anticipation of an average snowfall and winter weather conditions.

The county highway department will place eight miles of snowfencing on county and state aid roads while the Minnesota Highway Department will erect 32 miles of snowfencing in the district. In addition many township boards have purchased snowfencing to protect township roads.

The state department cut down its amount of snowfencing in the district by 10,000 feet, selling 5,000 feet of fence to Hubbard county and 5,000 feet to Cass county, it was learned here.

EVERGREEN MINING TO OPERATE MAROCO MINE AT TROMMALL

LEASE TRANSFERRED BY HANNA CO., OPERATORS SINCE 1927

The Evergreen Mining Co. will operate the Maroco Mine at Trommald according to a transfer of lease by the M. A. Hanna Co., it was learned today.

The Evergreen Mining Co. is affiliated with the North Range Iron Co., the organization controlling the property.

The Maroco was shut down last year after the Hanna Co. operated it since 1927.

W. H. Johns, Maroco superintendent will move his offices to the Feigh mine where he will look after the interests of the Hanna interests on the Cuyuna range. This group includes the Portsmouth, Feigh, Huntington and Martin mines and other mineral and timber properties in Crow Wing and Aitkin counties.

Congressman Maas Condemns Prohibition

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Congressman Melvin J. Maas of St. Paul last night told the St. Paul Turnverein anniversary dinner that he believed 400 of the 435 representatives in the lower house drank despite prohibition laws.

"If congress voted the way it drinks, prohibition would be repealed by an overwhelming majority," the congressman said. "Prohibition is the major reason for the power of the gangster, chiefly because through its failure the gangster has received undreamed of profits which may be used to corrupt public officials."

Concludes Art Exhibit in Staples City Hall

The art exhibit given under the auspices of the Tuesday Study club at Staples came to a close last evening. For three days about a hundred copies of the world's masterpieces of art have been on display at the city hall.

In connection with the exhibit last evening a program was given consisting of duets and trios with Miss Jessie Miller, Miss Florence DesMars and Miss Katherine Phillips with Miss Ona Erickson presiding at the piano; piano solos by Mrs. O. Hotchkiss; reading by Mrs. Grace Keely Olson, and the explanation of pictures on display by Mrs. P. M. Attwood, Mrs. L. F. Dodds, and Mrs. W. W. Wolf.

The proceeds of the exhibit are being used for the purchase of three pictures to be placed in the Staples public library. Two of the three selected by the committee for purchase are "The Pleasant Valley" and "The Enchanted Pool."

Foreign Plants Help

Washington — In the last 33 years more than 80,000 useful foreign plants have been imported into the United States from foreign countries, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic Society. DEFENDANT FIGHTS TAX EVASION CHARGE; CLAIMS SETTLEMENT IN 1926

A demurrer to the $136,293 income tax suit against Captain William Fawcett, publisher and resort owner, was studied today by Federal Judge Joseph W. Molyneux at Minneapolis.

The demurrer was filed Saturday in the suit brought by W. H. Taylor, former business manager of the Fawcett publications who charges the publisher with fraudulent gross income tax returns in 1925.

In the demurrer, Chester W. Johnson, attorney for Fawcett, claims the affair was settled in 1926.

Staples Sponsors Show for Benefit of Needy

The head officer in every Staples organization, be it brotherhood, lodge, or religious organization, is invited and urged to attend a meeting to be held at the city hall on Tuesday evening, Nov. 17 at 7:30 o'clock. The proposition that will be submitted to the group is looking toward a show that will be given at the New Staples theatre just before Christmas, the proceeds of which will be given to local charity. The goal set is for the equivalent of one ticket sold for each person in Staples. The money derived from this ticket sale will be used exclusively for relief work here at Staples.

The same offer is being made for the residents of Motley and Aldrich, they to have locally every cent derived from the sale of tickets in their town for their own local relief work.

WORKERS DRAFTED TO TAKE PART IN RELIEF FUND DRIVE TO DINE ON TUESDAY

Workers drafted by the Brainerd Community Relief fund administrators to take part in the actual drive for funds will banquet tomorrow at 6:15 o'clock in the high school cafeteria, after which definite plans for the movement will be outlined preliminary to inaugurating the drive with a rousing send-off.

Friends in sympathy with the drive and who are anxious that all the money subscribed go to the fund for the relief of those in distress have underwritten the cost of the dinner. Not one cent of the cost of the banquet will come out of the funds raised, it was announced today. Names of those who are providing the dinner were withheld subject to their request by community relief fund directors.

About 120 are expected to attend.

MRS. C. B. ROWLEY GAINS 32 MEMBERS IN RED CROSS CALL

ONLY PARTIAL COVERAGE OF FIRST WARD; WORKERS SOLICIT BUSINESS MEN

Mrs. C. B. Rowley, 323 South 5th street, had turned in today 32 annual memberships to the Red Cross in the Roll Call. She led the field of workers.

These members, the first report from her solicitation in the first ward, will be increased considerably before she completes her part of the city.

The drive for Red Cross members centered today in downtown Brainerd where business houses were solicited. Each worker reported fine programs.

EXPLAIN SIMILARITY OF ROASTING PROCESS AND HOUR-GLASS

Hills Bros.' Patented Process Produces a Fine, Even Roast Because Coffee Berries Pass Through the Roasters "a Little at a Time"

A stream of sand sifting from a globe on top through a narrow neck into a corresponding globe on the bottom... that's an hour-glass. And just as its accuracy depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the matchless, uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time.

Temperature and flow of coffee through the roasters are automatically controlled with this process. As a result, every berry is roasted to the degree that assures perfect flavor in every pound. Bulk-roasting methods seldom achieve such a thing.

It is Controlled Roasting that gives Hills Bros. Coffee a flavor no other coffee has. Insist on Hills Bros. Coffee. It is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. In ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee is ever-fresh. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

IS COMMUNISM WANING?---

Interesting is the United Press dispatch to The Daily Dispatch noting the fact that Communism has made little headway in the United States from 1929 to 1931. Election returns formed the basis for the story.

In perusing the figures and analyzing them, one sentence stands out as being particularly significant. It is that Communism's greatest show of political strength, which is a good criterion of power, probably has been in our own state—Minnesota, and its neighbor, Wisconsin.

Another salient feature shows that an increase of some 500 Communist votes was realized between 1928 and 1930 in Wisconsin where the Communist party put candidates for governor into the field. A corresponding gain was made in Minnesota in the face of sweeping victories by the farmer-labor party.

It might be well for the readers to ponder over the figures which are given herewith. Probably during no other period than during the depression which is now giving way to encouraging business trends has Communism had such an opportunity to spread and prosper. The fact that so many persons were out of work and their mental attitude gave Communists an excellent chance to ply their tactics. But, the American people, according to the figures, are not as gullible as they once were or are reputed to be. They have weathered the temptations to join the Communist party. This is refreshing to note.

In 1928, the Communist candidate for president received 1,528 votes in Wisconsin with 1,436 cast for U. S. senator and 1,420 for governor. In 1930, the Communist candidate for governor received 1,998 votes while the candidate for lieutenant governor was given 3,155, secretary of state 2,889 and attorney general 2,827.

Communists gave William Foster 4,853 votes for president in 1928 in Minnesota while Karl Reeve got 5,594 Communist votes for governor in 1930. That was the election in which the farmer-labor candidate was swept into office with 473,154 votes. Since then the Communists have not bothered to put any candidates into the field.

The farmer-labor party which now dominates Minnesota has taken in most progressives, some of whom previously voted the Communist ticket. Only the most radical voters carry on with the hammer and sickle emblem.

In Nebraska, Communists have appeared in no recent elections. The party claims 700 members in Omaha's packing house district and 150 "uptown" but they haven't voted. The party claims 1,100 members across the river in Council Bluffs, Ia., a city of 40,000. But the vote has not been officially recorded.

In Cleveland the Communists put only one candidate into the field in the recent municipal elections, Miss Mary Nurmi, who polled only 313 votes for the city council. Previous Communist candidates fared no better.

There were no Communist candidates for the city council in the recent Detroit elections, but the party's candidate for mayor in the last two elections received a few hundred votes. In spite of attempts to organize the foreign population, the party never has been able to gain a foothold.

Nor did the Communist party put forward any candidate in the last elections in Portland, Ore., where the party has claimed strength in the past.

In New York City, the Communists gave Israel Amber 1,798 votes for borough president of Manhattan. The greatest strength the Communists ever mustered in New York state was in 1928 when under the aegis of the Workers' Party they gave 10,884 votes to their candidate for president. At the same election, the Socialist candidate, Norman Thomas, received 107,332 while both Al Smith and Herbert Hoover each received more than 2,000,000 votes.

WINTER'S THREAT---

With the approach of winter, motorists should be warned of the seasonal increase of traffic accidents.

Skidding looms more dangerously as the days of slippery streets come upon us. Darkness is here before we get home from work. Wet leaves cover otherwise dry streets and deceive us when we skim over them with the usual assurance of complete safety.

These are only the more apparent dangers that threaten us in our driving. Behind each there is even the greater danger of our confidence in our ability on the security of the car itself, its brakes particularly.

Yet we are prone to miss perhaps the most important consideration in this threat of winter. That is the psychological factor, our own mental reaction to the coming of cold weather and early darkness.

For example: The early approach of darkness will find most of us hurrying home from work ahead of it. That is our nature, to get home before dark, for we invariably associate darkness with late hours and it is hard for us to realize that it may still be some time before our evening meal is ready.

Yet hurry we do, just when we should actually take more time driving home, and as a result we lay ourselves more open to accident.

This is only one example of the dangers of cold weather upon our minds. It is enough to point out the necessity of being on our guard at this time of year, of taking utmost care in driving, than at any other time.

Rather get home five minutes later than take the chance of not getting home at all, or at best arriving in an unhealthy condition.

THE RISE IN WHEAT---

The country at large seems to be waiting for only one more bit of news in connection with the spectacular and highly gratifying rise in the price of wheat. Before giving way to unrestrained rejoicing, it wants to be sure that the rise represents real demand and is not simply a reflection on speculative activities.

So far the indications are that the rise is substantial and genuine. If so, it constitutes one of the most encouraging developments, economically, that the United States has had since the stock market crash. Not only will the harassed farmers of the wheat belt be relieved from the menace of bankruptcy; their purchasing power, greatly strengthened, will soon have a highly beneficial effect on industry, and the city wage earner will find that better prices for wheat mean extra money in his own pocket.

Ultimately, it may well be recorded that the upswing in wheat prices marked the end of the great depression.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARY HARKNESS plots to catch THE FLY, who she believes "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of old MRS. JUPITER, and later ran Eddie down and killed him to keep him from talking.

She is aided by BOWEN of the Star, Mary's nurse, DIRK RUTHER, and his family object to the notoriety. They believe Eddie guilty, do the police. The case is dropped.

BRUCE JUPITER, absent many years, returns from Europe with a woman friend. His father orders him out and makes Mary his heir. Bruce swears to ruin Mary, who he thinks is a gold-digger.

Dirk forbids Mary to continue the investigation, refusing to believe in the existence of The Fly. He tells Mary that people are repeating Bruce's charges and says if she goes to Miami on the Jupiter yacht, as she plans, he will also believe them.

Mary goes seeking The Fly, whose horse is running at Hialeah soon. Dirk shows attention to his former sweetheart, CORNELIA TAYLOR, who is trying to win him back. THE COUNTESS, Bruce's friend, introduces an old friend, COUNT DE LOMA, a Loma is the name of the owner of The Fly's horse.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

MARY tried to speak from a dry throat but could not. She merely nodded. She must get hold of herself, she thought wildly, or she would give the whole thing away.

De Loma drew up a chair at the Countess's urgent invitation. He said reprovingly, "All that is past, Louise. There are no titles in America, remember."

"Nonsense," the Countess laughed. "There are more here than in Europe nowadays!"

Mr. Jupiter ate his dinner, paying no attention to the conversation. Thank God, thought Mary, he doesn't suspect. Now if I can only be sure of myself. . . .

But De Loma was not looking at her. After the first swift glance—did she imagine it or had his eyes strayed to her throat, involuntarily seeking the necklace?—he gave his attention to the Countess, chatting with her in a manner at once reserved and intimate. Mary looked at Bruce to see how he was taking it. He was calm enough. No trace of jealousy there, at least, apparent to the eye.

The music started and with one accord the two stood up and danced away, almost forgetting to excuse themselves in their absorption.

Mary's thoughts were racing. Once she thought of throwing the whole thing on Bruce's shoulders. . . .

"There is the man who killed your mother!" Bruce would be equal to the emergency; he would know what to do. And she could run away and hide, where this trembling of the knees would not threaten to conquer her at any minute! If Bruce had been a trifle more approachable she might actually have done it. But this frozen calm of his was more than she could break through.

There was no doubt in her mind that it was the same man she had seen at Shay's. She would know him anywhere. The same smooth, yellow skin, the same jet black hair, the bold, black eyes, so curiously unwinning. It was disconcerting to meet his stare—there was something rapacious, inhuman about it.

And this other puzzle, of his acquaintance with the Countess. Where had those two known each other? The Countess was making her first visit to America, ostensibly, and Mary knew definitely that America had been the scene of operations of The Fly for several years past, at least!

Mary resolutely put these thoughts aside lest they show in her face as she and Bruce returned to the table. The Countess had lost her strained look and was gay, even coquettish again.

MARY stabbed at the frozen fruits in her ice unseeing. She was so absorbed that it disconcerted her when she glanced up and saw her table companions all looking at her. She looked around at them rather wildly, frightened at having been caught off guard.

"What is it?" she asked.

The Countess lowered her eyes. "Enrique was merely saying that you look exquisite," she murmured throatily. "Not at all the jeune fille. It is perhaps the dress? Remarkable, the fair for dress the young American working woman possesses. By day, the grub, slaving away at the typewriting machine . . . at night, voila! She is a beauty!" dressed like a queen!

The scratch was in that, as usual, but Mary was saved from replying when De Loma, suddenly leaning forward on his arms, asked bluntly: "Haven't we met before?"

It was a challenge, but its swift answer found Mary ready to meet it.

"You were at Shay's, weren't you?" She laughed, as at an irresistible memory. "If I'd known then—"

"Known? Known what?"

Mary looked straight at him with just the right degree of wide-eyed innocence. "Why, that you were a count, of course!" She held her lower lip with her teeth, as if to control her amusement. "We thought you were a—your know—a racketeer! We practically ran from the place. Didn't you notice it?"

The beady black eyes did not change expression. As they bored into hers, seeming to probe her very soul for guile, Mary met them steadily, unwaveringly. (If he were scared off now . . . if he didn't believe her . . . ! Her heart almost stopped for a moment of terrible suspense.)

The innocent confusion that showed in her face apparently satisfied him, for he broke into a grin, and turned to the Countess to speak of something else. The music began again, a dreamy tango this time and to Mary's surprise De Loma abruptly turned back to her again and asked her to dance.

Her heart plunged once, then began to thump madly. She felt quite cold and numb but somehow she got to her feet, lifted her arms to him. Then, incredibly, she was moving off with him, his arm about her, her hand in his. It was . . . horrible. She, Mary Harkness, in the arms of this murderer, this thief! For one awful instant she felt her knees give way under her. Then she was dancing, she felt the beat of the music, she wrenched her mind away and kept it away from the man beside her. Gradually the black, dizzy whirlpool before her eyes cleared.

A QUICK spatter of applause broke out as they finished. Looking about in surprise, Mary saw that they were almost the only couple on the floor. The other had moved away to make room for them. It was impossible not to be pleased. As she walked back to their table, she felt sure of herself. Those treacherous feelings were under control now; the admission of all those people, even though she knew it was not due to her directly, but rather to De Loma's extraordinary skill as a party-giver, had infected her with just a feeling of confidence she needed. She was sure now that she could play the game out to the finish, and and is the way all beef is treated in order to make it tender. The meat of course must be kept in a very cold place.

In selecting a cut, the saddle or loin is considered the choicest of all. Plenty of fat is an indication of good quality, in fact, it can hardly be too fat.

Here Are Cooking Methods

The saddle usually is roasted and should be cooked rare. The haunch also is often roasted, but is usually liked well done. Steaks should be cut about half an inch thick and is cooked like beef steak—broiled, pan-broiled or fried. It is preferred rare.

Any cut of venison is improved if allowed to stand in a marinade of oil and vinegar for several hours or over night before cooking.

Current jelly is traditional to serve with venison. It is often used for basting a roast and is added to a delicious sauce to serve with steak.

The cooking of venison requires different methods than for ordinary meats. Either a saddle or haunch should be larded or rubbed with melted butter before putting in the oven. After it has been in the oven for about half an hour the heat should be reduced and the time calculated from this point. Allow 20 minutes to the pound. Thus a four-pound roast would need one hour and 30 minutes for roasting.

Avoid Over-rareness

Game birds are cooked in a number of ways and while they are usually liked rare, care should be taken that they are not too rare. The smaller-sized ones are broiled, either whole or in halves, and served on toast. The larger ones are roasted like young chickens and served in much the same way. Of course, any size can be disjoined or cut in halves and cooked in a casserole.

The usual savory stuffing used for birds. An onion, apple, a few uncooked domestic fowl is not liked in game, cranberries, celery and butter—any of these materials is dropped inside the bird before roasting to give flavor and richness. The onion or apple or whatever is used is not eaten but is removed before serving.

Guinea hen, although not a game bird, has a "gamey" flavor and is roasted like pheasant. An onion, a few stalks of celery and two or three tablespoons butter dropped inside either guinea fowl or pheasant before roasting gives a delicious flavor. The stuffing is not served.

The slightly fishy taste common to wild ducks can be overcome by rubbing them with a cut onion and putting a few uncooked cranberries in each duck when roasting. Wild rice is an excellent dish to serve with wild duck.

spoken, she knew the jig would be up. De Loma would never believe that was accidental.

Bates, who had been smoking and idly looking out over the harbor, now shifted lazily in his chair.

"Oh, is La Mosca your horse?" he grunted affably as if just becoming aware of the conversation.

De Loma looked from Bruce to Bates and back again. He was taut as a spring, Mary could see—suspicious. She could hear the beating of her own heart in the tense silence.

"She was," De Loma answered, after a moment's hesitation. "You've sold her then?" Bates spoke casually, apparently without interest.

"She has been shot," De Loma snapped. Everyone at the table stared at him, surprised out of the roles they were playing. At the horror in their faces, De Loma caught himself up quickly.

"The injury," he explained suavely, "made it necessary."

There was a concerted exhaling of breaths. Mary looked into her plate, not daring to lift her hot eyes to the man's face. Yes, what he said was the truth; but it was not the injury sustained on the track that had made death welcome to the courageous little animal! She had taken a bad tumble but she had struggled to her feet again and ran the race out, game to the core. And she had not even limped! No, what had made it necessary to shoot her was what happened later, in the paddock, Mary knew. "De Loma kicked hell out of her." She had been killed purely out of revenge, to satisfy the man's murderous fury at the horse for "letting him down."

The others, however, were noticeably relieved at De Loma's explanation. When she could trust herself to look up Mary surprised a look of intent speculation on the other woman's face as she studied De Loma under sleepy lids.

"She must have cost you a good bit today, eh?" the throaty voice murmured.

"Too much!" De Loma gritted. Out of the corner of her eye Mary thought she saw a dark-visaged man who had been hovering about the door beckon to De Loma just then, but she could not be sure. She looked about casually but the man had turned his back. He seemed to be poring over something he held in his hand. Then he put something in his vest pocket—perhaps a fountain pen.

De Loma had risen to go and she did not want to stare.

"We will see you again?" the Countess asked.

De Loma's jaw shut like a trap. "I must go now," he replied, his eyes on the man in the doorway. "Some business matters. I will see you later."

He came round the table and stared down at Mary, unsmiling. "I shall hope to dance with you again," he said politely.

"Thank you. Shall you be at the fete?" Mary put all the invitation at her command into the look she sent straight into the black, inscrutable eyes. For an instant she went hot and cold with fear that she had done it too crudely. That "come-hither" look had been far too bald—if the man had any sense he would be disgusted.

She could not know, however, what De Loma read in the blush of lovely confusion that overspread her cheeks. He was human and he was vain. He brought his heels together and made her a jaunty bow. "That's a date!" he said. "I shall be there!"

Brainerd is to have another theatre. Chas. Millsaugh has rented the two east rooms in the Imperial block and will fit them up as a first class theatre. There will be a sloping floor put in the store room recently vacated by Mr. Skauge, and a door will be cut through to the narrow room on the east side, which will be used as a lobby. Mr. Millsaugh will continue his theatre in Little Falls.

Mrs. Anna M. Waite went to Fort Ripley today to visit friends.

C. H. Kylo was summoned to Fairbault today by a telegram from his father and left on the noon train.

Mrs. Henry I. White, of Gull Lake, was in the city today en route to Pine River to attend the Cass county educational association.

Miss Bertha Stadel left today noon for the Twin Cities on business for the Moberg department store. She will be absent several days.

Mrs. C. A. Eckman of Staples underwent a serious surgical operation at St. Joseph's hospital yesterday. She is doing nicely and a speedy recovery is expected.

The new merchandise freight schedule which went into effect Thursday will make a decided difference in freights to Brainerd merchants. The rates were formerly the same from the Twin Cities and from Duluth and Superior, but the new schedule is based more nearly on the lines of a distance tariff and the cut is about ten per cent heavier from Duluth and Superior than from the Twin Cities.

Prepare for Hearing of Youths on Extortion Charge

Wabasha, Minn., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Attorneys for Stewart and B. M. Russell, Rochester, brothers, today prepared for a hearing in district court on robbery charges against the youths who are accused of having robbed two aged brothers living on a farm near Mazepa of their life savings.

The youths were arraigned in justice court yesterday and pleaded not guilty. They were bound over to the district court. The date for their hearing in district court was left open.

The youths are charged with having held up Nick and Henry Hartz, and obtained $2,000 cash as well as unnamed securities and bonds.

Yet hurry we do, just when we should actually take more time driving home, and as a result we lay ourselves more open to accident.

This is only one example of the dangers of cold weather upon our minds. It is enough to point out the necessity of being on our guard at this time of year, of taking utmost care in driving, than at any other time.

Rather get home five minutes later than take the chance of not getting home at all, or at best arriving in an unhealthy condition.

THE RISE IN WHEAT--

The country at large seems to be waiting for only one more bit of news in connection with the spectacular and highly gratifying rise in the price of wheat. Before giving way to unrestrained rejoicing, it wants to be sure that the rise represents real demand and is not simply a reflection on speculative activities.

So far the indications are that the rise is substantial and genuine. If so, it constitutes one of the most encouraging developments, economically, that the United States has had since the stock market crash. Not only will the harassed farmers of the wheat belt be relieved from the menace of bankruptcy; their purchasing power, greatly strengthened, will soon have a highly beneficial effect on industry, and the city wage earner will find that better prices for wheat mean extra money in his own pocket.

Ultimately, it may well be recorded that the upswing in wheat prices marked the end of the great depression.

MARY HARKNESS plots to catch THE FLY, who she believes "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of old Mrs. JUPITER, and later ran Eddie down and killed him to keep him from talking.

She is aided by BOWEN of the star, Mary's fiance, DIRK RUY-THOR, and his family object to the notoriety. They believe Eddie guilty, as do the police. The case is dropped.

BRUCE JUPITER, absent many years, returns from Europe with a woman friend. His father orders him out and makes Mary his heir. Bruce swears to ruin Mary, who he thinks is a gold-digger.

Dirk forbids Mary to continue the investigation, refusing to believe in the existence of The Fly. He tells Mary that people are repeating Bruce's charges and says if she goes to Miami on the Jupiter yacht, as she plans, he will also believe them.

Mary goes, seeking The Fly, whose horse is running at Hialeah track. Dirk shows attention to his former sweetheart, CORNELIA TABOR, who is trying to win him back. THE COUNTESS, Bruce's friend, introduces an old friend, COUNT DE LOMA. De Loma is the name of the owner of The Fly's horse.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

MARY tried to speak from a dry throat but could not. She merely nodded. She must get hold of herself, she thought wildly, or she would give the whole thing away.

De Loma drew up a chair at the Countess' urgent invitation. He said reprovingly, "All that is past, Louise. There are no titles in America, remember."

"Nonsense," the Countess laughed. "There are more here than in Europe nowadays!"

Mr. Jupiter ate his dinner, paying no attention to the conversation. Thank God, thought Mary, he doesn't suspect. Now if I can only be sure of myself. . . .

But De Loma was not looking at her. After the first swift glance—did she imagine it or had his eyes strayed to her throat, involuntarily seeking the necklace?—he gave his attention to the Countess, chatting with her in a manner at once reserved and intimate. Mary looked at Bruce to see how he was taking it. He was calm enough. No trace of jealousy there, at least, apparent to the eye.

The music started and with one accord the two stood up and danced away, almost forgetting to excuse themselves in their absorption.

Mary's thoughts were racing. Once she thought of throwing the whole thing on Bruce's shoulders. . . . "There is the man who killed your mother!" Bruce would be equal to the emergency; he would know what to do. And she could run away and hide, where this trembling of the knees would not threaten to conquer her at any minute! If Bruce had been a trifle more approachable she might actually have done it. But this frozen calm of his was more than she could break through.

There was no doubt in her mind that it was the same man she had seen at Shay's. She would know him anywhere. The same smooth, sallow skin, the same jet black hair, the bold, black eyes, so curiously unliking. It was disconcerting to meet his stare—there was something rapacious, inhuman about it.

And this other puzzle, of his acquaintance with the Countess. Where had those two known each other? The Countess was making her first visit to America, ostensibly, and Mary knew definitely that America had been the scene of operations of The Fly for several years past, at least!

Mary resolutely put these thoughts aside lest they show in her face as she and Bruce returned to the table. The Countess had lost her strained look and was gay, even coquettish again.

MARY stabbed at the frozen fruits in her ice unseeingly. She was so absorbed that it disconcerted her when she glanced up and saw her table companions all looking at her. She looked around at them rather wildly, frightened at having been caught off guard.

"What is it?" she asked.

"The Countess lowered her eyes. 'Eulogie was merely saying that you look exquisite,' she murmured throatily. 'Not at all the jeune fille. It is perhaps the dress? Remarkable, the fair for dress the young American working woman possesses. By day, the grub, slaying away at the typewriting machine. . . . At night, voila! She is a queen!'"

The scratch was in that, at least, but Mary was saved from replying when De Loma, suddenly leaning forward on his arms, asked bluntly: "Haven't we met before?"

It was a challenge, but its swift-ness found Mary ready to meet it. "You were at Shay's, weren't you?" She laughed, as at an irresistible memory. "If I'd known then—"

"Known? Known what?"

Mary looked straight at him with just the right degree of wide-eyed innocence.

"Why, that you were a count, of course!" She held her lower lip with her teeth, as if to control her amusement. "We thought you were a—you know—a racketeer! We practically ran from the place. Didn't you notice it?"

The beady black eyes did not change expression. As they bored into hers, seeming to probe her very soul for guile, Mary met them steadily, unwaveringly. (If he were scared off now. . . . If he heard almost stopped for a moment of terrible suspense.)

The innocent confusion that showed in her face apparently satisfied him, for he broke into a grin, and turned to the Countess to speak of something else. The music began again, a dreamy tang this time and to Mary's surprise De Loma abruptly turned back to her again and asked her to dance.

Her heart plunged once, then began to thump madly. She felt quite cold and numb but somehow she got to her feet, lifted her arms to him. Then, incredibly, she was moving off with him, his arm about her, her hand in his. It was . . . horrible. She, Mary Harkness, in the arms of this murderer, this thief! For one awful instant she felt her knees give way under her. Then she was dancing, she felt the beat of the music, she wrenched her mind away and kept it away from the man beside her. Gradually the black, dizzy whirlpool before her eyes cleared.

A QUICK spatter of applause broke out as they finished. Looking about in surprise, Mary saw that there were almost the only couple on the floor. The other had moved away to make room for them. It was impossible not to be pleased. As she walked back to their table, she felt sure of herself. Those treacherous feelings were well under control now; the admiration of all those people, even though she knew it was not due to her directly, but rather to De Loma's extraordinary skill as a dancer, had infected her with just the feeling of confidence she needed.

She was sure now that she could play the game out to the finish, and afraid of De Loma or anyone else. The worst was over.

Mr. Jupiter beamed upon her and Bruce applauded mildly.

"Excellent!" he felicitated them both. "You should really be in the cinemas."

Mary laughed, good-humoredly. "We're considering it."

The Countess was twisting bread between restless fingers, affecting an indifference Mary knew she was far from feeling.

"Yes, you make a very well-matched pair," the older woman observed dryly. "And only Mary, perhaps, was fully alive to the venomous implications of that remark."

But she had no time to waste in resentment of Louise's cattiness; she was wondering how soon she could manage to leave without arousing De Loma's suspicion. He seemed to have joined the party permanently. Just why, she did not know.

But the Countess made it easy for her. She professed a headache. "From watching those silly horses," Bruce remarked. "Never again for me!"

"You should have worn glasses," De Loma chided her, taking a pair of colored lenses from his pocket and offering them to her. "You will need these if you are here long. The sunlight is very strong."

So that was how she had missed him, Mary decided. His face was half hidden with the glasses on; and it was his eyes that one could not mistake—as black and soulless as marble.

"Give them to Mrs. Harkness," the Countess prompted. "She is the one who takes us there. She likes the races; I do not."

"You like racing?" De Loma asked quickly, looking sharply at the girl.

Mary shrugged. "It is a famous track, and I had never seen a race. I don't like it much, no. Why should I? I bet on the horse every one says will win, and he falls down. I have hardly the luck to make a racing enthusiast, should you say?"

"Ah, the clumsy fool!" De Loma exclaimed before she had finished. Plainly it enraged him merely to remember the afternoon's debacle. "She's a jinx, that horse. She won't bring me bad luck. Well, she won't any more, damn her!"

"Why don't you change her name?" Bruce suggested indifferently. "Sometimes that helps."

Mary knew the remark was innocent, but she held her breath. De Loma might not take it so. She began to regret that Bruce had not been taken into confidence about the identity of the man they were after. Fearful of Bruce's headstrong impulsiveness, she and Mr. Jupiter had decided to keep the essential facts from the younger man for a while. But he could hardly have made a more unfortunate remark if he had really intended to. And as if that were not enough, he blundered on:

"La Mosca! Why, that's—"

QUICKLY, desperately, Mary set her French-heeled slipper on his foot and stepped—hard. Bruce looked at her angrily, his mouth open to protest—but something in her face stopped him fortunately.

"Yes, yes!" she teased, in loud, other-and-sister style, "that's the way you lost your money! But I needn't insult Mr.—Count De Loma. He was almost shivering with relief that he had not gone on and what she guessed he had said to say—that's Italian for 'fly.' Once that word was spoken, she knew the jig would be up. De Loma would never believe that was accidental.

Bates, who had been smoking and idly looking out over the harbor, now shifted lazily in his chair. "Oh, is La Mosca your horse?" he grunted affably as if just becoming aware of the conversation.

De Loma looked from Bruce to Bates and back again. He was taut as a spring, Mary could see—suspicious. She could hear the beating of her own heart in the tense silence.

"She was," De Loma answered, after a moment's hesitation. "You've sold her then?" Bates spoke casually, apparently without interest.

"She has been shot," De Loma snapped. Everyone at the table stared at him, surprised out of the roles they were playing. At the horror in their faces, De Loma caught himself up quickly.

"The injury," he explained suavely, "made it necessary."

There was a concerted exhaling of breaths. Mary looked into her plate, not daring to lift her hot eyes to the man's face. Yes, what he said was the truth; but it was not the injury sustained on the track that had made death welcome to the courageous little animal! She had taken a bad tumble but she had struggled to her feet again and ran the race out, game to the core. And she had not even limped! No, what had made it necessary to shoot her was what happened later, in the paddock, Mary knew. "De Loma kicked hell out of her." She had been killed purely out of revenge, to satisfy the man's murderous fury at the horse for "letting him down."

The others, however, were noticeably relieved at De Loma's explanation. When she could trust herself to look up Mary surprised a look of intent speculation on the other woman's face as she studied De Loma under sleepy lids.

"She must have cost you a good bit today, eh?" the throaty voice murmured.

"Too much!" De Loma gritted.

Out of the corner of her eye Mary thought she saw a dark-visaged man who had been hovering about the door beckon to De Loma just then, but she could not be sure. She looked about casually but the man had turned his back. He seemed to be poring over something he held in his hand. Then he put something in his vest pocket—perhaps a fountain pen.

De Loma had risen to go and she did not want to stare.

"We will see you again?" the Countess asked.

De Loma's jaw shut like a trap. "I must go now," he replied, his eyes on the man in the doorway. "Some business matters. I will see you later."

He came round the table and stared down at Mary, unsmiling. "I shall hope to dance with you again," he said politely.

"Thank you. Shall you be at the fête?" Mary put all the invitation at her command into the look she sent straight into the black, inscrutable eyes. For an instant she went hot and cold with fear that she had done it too crudely. That "come-hither" look had been far too bald—if the man had any sense he would be disgusted.

She could not know, however, what De Loma read in the blush of lovely confusion that overspread her cheeks. He was human and he was vain. He brought his heels together and made her a jaunty bow. "That's a date!" he said. "I shall be there!"

BRAINERD

November 16, 1906

Brainerd is to have another theatre. Chas. Milsaugh has rented the two east rooms in the Imperial block and will fit them up as a first class theatre. There will be a sloping floor put in the store room recently vacated by Mr. Skauge, and a door will be cut through to the narrow room on the east side, which will be used as a lobby. Mr. Milsaugh will continue his theatre in Little Falls.

Mrs. Anna M. Waite went to Fort Ripley today to visit friends.

C. H. Kyllö was summoned to Fairbault today by a telegram from his father and left on the noon train.

Mrs. Henry I. White, of Gull Lake, was in the city today en route to Pine River to attend the Cass county educational association.

Miss Bertha Stadel left today noon for the Twin Cities on business for the Moberg department store. She will be absent several days.

Mrs. C. A. Eckman of Staples underwent a serious surgical operation at St. Joseph's hospital yesterday. She is doing nicely and a speedy recovery is expected.

The new merchandise freight schedule which went into effect Thursday will make a decided difference in freights to Brainerd merchants. The rates were formerly the same from the Twin Cities and from Duluth and Superior, but the new schedule is based more nearly on the lines of a distance tariff and the cut is about ten per cent heavier from Duluth and Superior than from the Twin Cities.

Prepare for Hearing of Youths on Extortion Charge

Wabasha, Minn., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Attorneys for Stewart and B. M. Russell, Rochester, brothers, today prepared for a hearing in district court on robbery charges against the youths who are accused of having robbed two aged brothers living on a farm near Mazepa of their life savings.

The youths were arraigned in justice court yesterday and pleaded not guilty. They were bound over to the district court. The date for their hearing in district court was left open.

The youths are charged with having held up Nick and Henry Hartz, and obtained $2,000 cash as well as unnamed securities and bonds.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

Game of various sorts is in keeping for Thanksgiving time and may even grace the Thanksgiving feast. Game birds especially have a season in most states and are available in the markets.

Rabbits and squirrels are common game foods and can be cooked in many ways. Fricassee, stew, pie and roast are all popular and easy to prepare.

Venison, properly cooked, is one of the most delicious of the wild meats. Very easily digested, it is a particularly suitable food for the convalescent.

Although newly-killed deer has a sweet flavor it is quite tough and must be allowed to hang from one to two weeks before cutting into joints and steaks. This is known as "ripening"

and is the way all beef is treated in order to make it tender. The meat of course must be kept in a very cold place.

In selecting a cut, the saddle or loin is considered the choicest of all. Plenty of fat is an indication of good quality, in fact, it can hardly be too fat.

Here Are Cooking Methods

The saddle usually is roasted and should be cooked rare. The haunch also is often roasted, but is usually liked well done. Steak should be cut about half an inch thick and is cooked like beef steak—broiled, pan-broiled or fried. It is preferred rare.

Any cut of venison is improved if allowed to stand in a marinade of oil and vinegar for several hours or overnight before cooking.

Current jelly is traditional to serve with venison. It is often used for basting a roast and is added to a delicious sauce to serve with steak.

The cooking of venison requires different methods than for ordinary meats. Either a saddle or haunch should be larded or rubbed with melted butter before putting in the oven. After it has been in the oven for about half an hour the heat should be reduced and the time calculated from this point. Allow 20 minutes to the pound. Thus a four-pound roast would need one hour and 30 minutes for roasting.

Avoid Over-rareness

Game birds are cooked in a number of ways and while they are usually liked rare, care should be taken that they are not too rare. The smaller-sized ones are broiled, either whole or in halves, and served on toast. The larger ones are roasted like young chickens and served in much the same way. Of course, any size can be disjointed or cut in halves and cooked on a casserole.

The usual savory stuffing used for birds. An onion, apple, a few uncooked domestic fowls is not liked in game cranberries, celery and butter—any of these materials is dropped inside the bird before roasting to give flavor and richness. The onion or apple or whatever is used is not eaten but is removed before serving.

Guinea hen, although not a game bird, has a "gamey" flavor and is roasted like pheasant. An onion, a few stalks of celery and two or three tablespoons butter dropped inside either guinea fowl or pheasant before roasting gives a delicious flavor. The stuffing is not served.

The slightly fishy taste common to wild ducks can be overcome by rubbing them with a cut onion and putting a few uncooked cranberries in each duck when roasting. Wild rice is an excellent dish to serve with wild duck.

IRELAND, ROCKED BY POLITICAL STRIFE, HELPLESS IN COUNTRYWIDE TERRORISM

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Dublin, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The tension of civil war days has returned to Ireland after a decade of progress under home rule. Through the streets of Dublin constantly ride patrols of armed soldiers. Others, with bayonets fixed, stand alert at the entrance to the Dail. Night and day the homes of high government officials are under guard. Deputies on the way to parliament are given escorts.

The reason lies in a wave of countryside terrorism, that, in President Cosgrave's own words, "has made the task of government almost impossible."

In scattered towns and villages there has been a series of political murders with which the law has been unable to cope. Prosecutors and witnesses were assassinated; others were sent threatening letters. One assassination villagers found leaflets scattered through the streets bearing the words: "Let this be a warning that no police officers shall be allowed to stand in our way."

The result was the speedy passage of the public safety act—Ireland's most drastic legislative measure in 100 years. It gives a military tribunal power to hold secret trials and inflict death for a wide number of offenses. There is no appeal from the sentence.

The Irish republican army still considers itself at war with Great Britain. It did not break up when the rebellious "republic" made its peace with Britain in 1921 and became the Irish Free State.

But suddenly, about eight months ago, the army leaders discovered a new source of strength. For half a century or more Ireland had been drained of her youth by emigration. Thousands of young men annually departed to settle in more prosperous lands, chiefly the United States. Then the depression descended. Ireland, with prices holding steady in her meat and dairy exports, appeared for a while to be riding better than any European nation. The youths decided this time to stay at home.

All at once, without warning, came trouble from every side. England, Ireland's nearest and biggest customer, suffered a heavy economic blow, and Irish exports fell. The young men who stayed at home found they were not needed there, and the unemployment figure rose.

President Cosgrave and his minister of justice frankly admitted their helplessness. In appealing for the safety bill the president declared: "A state of affairs exists in this country with which the law is inadequate to deal. The constitution of the Free State is one of the most democratic in the world. Freedom is given for the adoption of any political program, but attempts have been made to establish a dictatorship by means of violence. We cannot submit to any political change from persons with guns in their hands."

Ortonville Store Yields $1,000 Loot to Robbers

Ortonville, Minn., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Burglars chiseled a hole in the roof of the Ortonville Mercantile Co., knocked the combination from the safe, pried it open and fled with $1,000 loot, it was discovered today.

The robbery occurred last night. G. A. Kleinschmidt, proprietor of the store discovered the robbery this morning when he went to the store to obtain his brief case, preparatory to making a trip to the Twin Cities.

Miller wins a trip to St. Paul to attend the State Horticulture Flower Society conference Nov. 18, 19 and 20 while Caughey will be rewarded by a trip to the state fair next year.

NEW P. T. A. SONGS FEATURE LOWELL MEETING TUESDAY

SING HAS PRINCIPAL PART ON PROGRAM; OFFICERS TO SERVE REFRESHMENTS

Community singing from the new P. T. A. pamphlets will be a feature of the Lowell Parent-Teachers Association Tuesday at 8 p. m. Miss Ethel Wrennig will conduct the singing with Miss Minnie Lindblom, accompanist. All teachers will be in their rooms at 7:30 o'clock to visit with parents.

Reports of delegates to the state convention will be heard. The Harmony Four quartet will sing two selections. Mrs. Lawrence Erickson will also give a vocal solo.

The officers will be hostesses at a social hour following the program and will serve refreshments.

The membership committee will be prepared to collect dues for 1932 in the hope that many will renew their membership and thus reduce the number of calls later.

Murphy Slayer Known to Police, Chief Says

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Chief of Police Thomas A. Brown today announced that the name of the gunman who shot down Walter "Limpy" Murphy was known to police and that an arrest was expected shortly.

Murphy, 27 year old hoodlum, whom police said was mixed up in gambling and narcotics rackets, was found dead last night with three bullet holes in him. The shooting occurred in the rear room of a St. Peter street cigar store.

Seven persons were held today as witnesses of the shooting although only the proprietor of the store and a clerk were present when police found Murphy's body.

IRELAND, ROCKED BY POLITICAL STRIFE, HELPLESS IN COUNTRYWIDE TERRORISM

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Dublin, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The tension of civil war days has returned to Ireland after a decade of progress under home rule.

Through the streets of Dublin constantly ride patrols of armed soldiers. Others, with bayonets fixed, stand alert at the entrance to the Dail. Night and day the homes of high government officials are under guard. Deputies on the way to parliament are given escorts.

The reason lies in a wave of countryside terrorism, that, in President Cosgrave's own words, "has made the task of government almost impossible."

In scattered towns and villages there has been a series of political murders with which the law has been unable to cope. Prosecutors and witnesses were assassinated; others were sent threatening letters. One assassination villagers found leaflets scattered through the streets bearing the words: "Let this be a warning that no police officers shall be allowed to stand in our way."

The result was the speedy passage of the public safety act—Ireland's most drastic legislative measure in 100 years. It gives a military tribunal power to hold secret trials and inflict death for a wide number of offenses. There is no appeal from the sentence.

The Irish republican army still considers itself at war with Great Britain. It did not break up when the rebellious "republic" made its peace with Britain in 1921 and became the Irish Free State.

But suddenly, about eight months ago, the army leaders discovered a new source of strength. For half a century or more Ireland had been drained of her youth by emigration. Thousands of young men annually departed to settle in more prosperous lands, chiefly the United States. Then the depression descended. Ireland, with prices holding steady in her meat and dairy exports, appeared for a while to be riding better than any European nation. The youths decided this time to stay at home.

All at once, without warning, came trouble from every side. England, Ireland's nearest and biggest customer, suffered a heavy economic blow, and Irish exports fell. The young men who stayed at home found they were not needed there, and the unemployment figure rose.

President Cosgrave and his minister of justice frankly admitted their helplessness. In appealing for the safety bill the president declared: "A state of affairs exists in this country with which the law is inadequate to deal. The constitution of the Free State is one of the most democratic in the world. Freedom is given for the adoption of any political program, but attempts have been made to establish a dictatorship by means of violence. We cannot submit to any political change from persons with guns in their hands."

Ortonville, Minn., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Burglars chiseled a hole in the roof of the Ortonville Mercantile Co., knocked the combination from the safe, pried it open and fled with $1,000 loot, it was discovered today.

The robbery occurred last night. G. A. Kleinschmidt, proprietor of the store discovered the robbery this morning when he went to the store to obtain his brief case, preparatory to making a trip to the Twin Cities.

There Is No Depression for the Smart Shopper

When money is plentiful, people are prone to overlook the cost of an article if they want it and realize its quality. In bad times, price may be the first consideration—quality second. The happy medium is the guide for smart shoppers—actual worth, durable quality, utility, at a fair price. And it works in prosperity or depression. It's the standard we employ all the time—merchandise as fine as we can command, at prices as low as our abilities and efficiencies make possible. Naturally, the present trend reflects itself in greatly reduced prices all over our store—but never at the sacrifice of quality and value.

"I've changed to Chesterfield"

WHY do more and more smokers say:

BECAUSE . . .

THEY'RE Milder. It's the tobacco! The best tobacco—the smoothest and mildest that money can buy—go into Chesterfield. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine . . . cured by the farmer . . . then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads. No wonder you say, "They're so much milder!"

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. That's Chesterfield's secret—but millions of smokers agree that the job couldn't be improved! Rich aroma of Turkish and mellow sweetness of Domestic, blended and cross-blended to Chesterfield's own BETTER TASTE.

THEY'RE PURE. Cleanliness and purity, always! Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists . . . tested thoroughly. The purest cigarette paper made, burning without taste or odor. Sanitary manufacture . . . no hands touch your Chesterfields. They're as pure as the water you drink!

THEY SATISFY. You break open a clean, tight-sealed package. You light up a well-filled cigarette. Yes, sir . . . you're going to like this cigarette—you know that with your very first puff. And right there's where many a smoker changes to Chesterfield. They Satisfy!

GOPHERS MEET OHIO AT MINNEAPOLIS IN CHARITY GAME

GATE RECEIPTS OF ALL GAMES WILL BE POOLED, DIVIDED

MONEY WILL GO TO GOVERNOR'S UNEMPLOYED FUND IN EACH TERRITORY

Chicago, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Big Ten's charity post-season football schedule has been arranged as follows: Saturday, November 28: Northwestern vs. Purdue at Soldier Field, Chicago. Michigan vs. Wisconsin at Ann Arbor. Minnesota vs. Ohio State at Minneapolis. Thursday, November 26—(Thanksgiving Day): Chicago vs. Iowa. Indiana vs. Illinois. Two winners to meet afterward. All games, 30 minutes each at Stagg Field, Chicago.

This schedule was drawn up at a meeting of the athletic directors and coaches here Sunday. All Big Ten athletic directors and coaches attended except Harry Kipke, Michigan coach. The athletic directors, by a vote of 6 to 4, voted down a game between Northwestern and Michigan, favoring a home game between each team. The athletic directors believed home games involving the two teams would draw bigger crowds.

The gate receipts will be pooled and divided among the seven states comprising Big Ten territory, according to the population of each state. The money will go to the governor's unemployed charity fund in each state. Prices of $3, $2 and $1 will prevail at the three November 28 games, and at the tournament at Stagg Field Thanksgiving Day. No complimentary tickets will be given out, and only one working press ticket will be allotted each newspaper and press association. A sum in excess of $250,000 is expected to be realized from the post-season games.

The schedule as arranged brings together the six strongest teams which did not play each other during the regular season. The first games of the Round-Robin tournament bring together teams which did not meet during the season, but Iowa and Illinois must win the opening games to prevent teams which have played from meeting in the tournament final.

The result of the three post-season games will count in the final Big Ten standing, said Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the athletics. Thus Northwestern might lose its claim to undisputed possession of the championship if it beats Iowa Saturday, and then loses to Purdue November 28. No mention was made at the meeting of permitting Northwestern to play Southern California in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day, provided the Evanston school received an invitation. It is believed that Northwestern will not consider the matter one way or the other until after November 28.

SOOTHSAYER PROUD OF PICKING PITT TO DEFEAT ARMY

The Old Soothsayer, missing since late Saturday when the results of the day's football game began to pour into headquarters, late this morning was finally located with his head still tucked under the covers and the "old fossil" himself complained of having a carbunkle in his ear. "It must have been coming on already last week when I made those predictions," he lamented. "Can't I stay in bed and do away with the post-mortem on the prognostications," he pleaded but to no avail.

So here is the sad story. Twenty-three out of 32 games, the Old Soothsayer predicted the winners. Another game resulted in a tie score.

Considerable anguish was expressed by the old handicapper over the fact that he fell down in prognosticating the results of the small college games. But he pointed with pride to his season's record which now shows 90 winners out of 120 games.

The Old Soothsayer's bargain special was his prediction that Pittsburgh would beat the Army. And, the Panthers came through for him tripping the Cadets 26 to 0.

MOORHEAD TUTORS MAY RESIGN FROM COLLEGE CIRCUIT

Moorhead, Minn., Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Moorhead State Teachers College may resign from the interstate college conference Coach Alex J. Nemzek announced today.

Coach Nemzek plans to make a formal announcement of his intentions at the meeting of football coaches to be held at Valley City, N. D., November 20-21. At the same time he said he would announce plans for the formation of a new 6-team conference which would include, Aberdeen Normal, St. Cloud Teachers College, Superior Teachers College, Superior, Wis., the Moorhead Teachers College and two other colleges, not as yet decided.

Nemzek said the reason for wanting to leave the conference is that he wants to meet stronger opposition. Moorhead Teachers last night won their fourth consecutive championship after a 20-0 victory over Wahpeton.

MICHIGAN SHOULD FALL PREY TO GOPHERS IN FINAL SCHEDULED TILT, JONES BELIEVES

By PAUL M. JONES

It has been a long time since the Big Ten schedule was as featureless as Saturday's games were.

The only struggle looked for in the conference was the meeting at Ann Arbor between Michigan and Michigan State. For the second consecutive year the game resulted in a scoreless tie. While Michigan had a little advantage in the playing, the stubbornness of the state line held off any possible chance of the Wolverines to score.

At Northwestern, the 1931 conference champions were met by the inspired Hoosiers from Indiana and were given quite a scare before they were able to emerge with a 7-6 victory. The Wildcats were outplayed throughout the game, and except for an unlucky fumble, close to their own goal, would have lost. Though Northwestern failed to play up to standard, it proved that that old "alibi" manpower was zero today. This is one game where the injustice of the kicked goal after touchdown, didn't favor, as played today, the best team.

Minnesota's "breather" with Cornell (Ia.) was the romp looked for and while the Gophers emerged with the one-sided score of 47-7 it failed to bring forth from the reserves, any particular star for the varsity. The Cornell boys were far from their class, in meeting Minnesota, but at that, played enough football to gain some credit, from their superiors. Though the Gopher line-up was well filled with subs in the fourth quarter, it was a befitting climax to a well played game, that a sub fullback for Cornell should run 76 yds. through the Gopher team for a score.

After giving the first team a decided rest for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor Saturday, the final touches will be put on, in hopes victory will be obtained, to close a somewhat creditable season at Minnesota. There is no reason at all, why the Gophers on past performances, shouldn't triumph Saturday. Tad Wieman, Gopher line coach scouted the Michigan game, and should have a pretty good idea of what weaknesses Michigan has, as the Michigan Aggies no doubt forced much from the Wolverines, to stave off defeat.

After the game Saturday at Ann Arbor, the Gophers will have a game for charity, to be played at Minneapolis Nov. 28 with Ohio State. Michigan after all her talk on wanting to meet Northwestern, backed down when it was learned game would count in standings, and plays easy Wisconsin. Leave it to Yost to protect his second place in final standings, giving as an alibi, wouldn't play in the mud at Soldier's Field, Chicago.

CONCORDIA NABS FIRST STATE LOOP FOOTBALL TITLE

WILL DEFEND UNBEATEN RECORD AGAINST ST. OLAF GRIDDERS SATURDAY

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Concordia College of Moorhead with its first state conference championship secure today began preparations to defend its unbeaten record this year against St. Olaf next Saturday.

The Moorhead College's first title came late in the third period of its game with St. Thomas Saturday when Captain Pinky Falgren deflected a St. Thomas forward pass into the arms of Clifford Nick, Concordia right end who sped 85 yards for the only score of the game. Hammar place kicked for the extra point.

St. Thomas was able to keep the ball in Concordia territory most of the game but lacked scoring punch. St. Thomas made 11 first downs to two for Concordia.

St. Olaf college was one touchdown better than its traditional rival, Luther College, Saturday and returned from Decorah, Ia., with a 14 to 6 victory. Saumer and Sol scored for the Oles while Christianson counted for Luther.

Hamline university turned viciously and held a one touchdown lead over the more highly touted Macalester team until the last 35 seconds of play, Saturday when Macalester was able to even the count and obtain a tie at 6 to 6. Blocked punts were instrumental in each team's scoring.

St. Mary's Redmen of Winona easily defeated Gustavus Adolphus at Winona by a score of 25 to 7. Carleton College found easy going against Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., and came home on the long end of a 45 to 6 score.

The conference standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Concordia	4	0	1,000
St. Thomas	3	1	.750
St. Olaf	2	1	.667
St. John's	3	2	.600
Macalester	2	2	.500
Gustavus	2	3	.400
Hamline	1	3	.250
Augsburg	0	5	.000

Pacific Coast Holds Intersectional Edge

New York, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Pacific coast held its leadership in intersectional football competition today.

There was no week end contest involving an important far coast eleven. The midwest gained ground by Notre Dame's victory over Navy while Detroit was tying with Villanova.

Intersectional standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Far West	2	1	.667
East	28	17	.462
Midwest	18	19	.486
Southwest	3	4	.429
South	8	17	.320

Harvard Outstanding on Eastern Gridiron

New York, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Harvard, with only one game to play, stood forth today as the giant of the eastern football teams, for it is the only one boasting a record of no defeat and no tie.

Harvard plays Yale in their annual classic at Cambridge Saturday. For the first time since 1913 the Cambridge eleven has gone down to its traditional finale with a perfect season record.

Harvard, led by Barry Wood and by Jack Crickard who scored the touchdown, won 7-0 over Holy Cross.

CHICAGO CARDS SMASH PACKERS' VICTORY MARCH

ERNIE NEVERS LEADS MATES TO 21 TO 13 VICTORY OF GREEN BAY PACKERS

Chicago, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—The Green Bay Packers, national professional football league champions, had their first defeat of the 1931 season registered against them, but continued today to hold the league lead.

The Chicago Cardinals, paced by Ernie Nevers in one of the most brilliant football exhibitions of his career, smashed Green Bay's 9-game winning streak with a 21-13 victory before 8,000 persons at Wrigley Field. The Cards led throughout the game, scoring touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods. The score at half-time was 7-6 in favor of the Cardinals.

A 24-yard pass, Nevers to Creighton, scored the first touchdown. The Cards staged a 49-yard drive for the second touchdown, Gene Rose, former Wisconsin star, going over from the 5-yard line. Nevers passed 13 yards to Kassel for the final touchdown.

Green Bay scored on a blocked punt in the second period, Nash scooping up the ball and running 15 yards after Stahlman had blocked the effort. Bruder scored the second touchdown in the last two minutes of play.

A 35-yard pass, Eberbaugh to Gardland Grange, in the final minutes of play enabled the Chicago Bears to defeat the New York Giants, 12 to 6, before 30,000 at New York.

The Portsmouth Spartans scored their tenth victory of the season by defeating Cleveland at Cincinnati, 14-6. Providence won from Staten Island, 6-0, in the other league game.

This Week's Games
Northwestern vs. Iowa at Iowa City.
Minnesota vs. Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Wisconsin vs. Chicago at Chicago.
Purdue vs. Indiana at Bloomington.
Illinois vs. Ohio State at Columbus.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—(U.P.)—Northwestern's undefeated, untied Big Ten record was intact today because Indiana's attempt at extra point after touchdown hit the goal posts and enabled the Wildcats to down the Hoosiers Saturday at Evanston, 7-6.

After driving 80 yards for a touchdown, Vic Dauer's kick hit the goal posts, bounded back on the wrong side and prevented Indiana from getting a deserved tie. Dick Fencil, Northwestern end, recovered a fumble on Indiana's 22-yard line, and Reb Russell, playing for the first time since he was injured against Nebraska, plunged over for a touchdown. Paul Engbrethsen, 204-pound guard, place kicked goal which gave Northwestern its fourth straight Big Ten victory. Indiana's running attack gained 120 yards to Northwestern's 119.

"My boys had a big let down," Coach Dick Hanley said today. "I expected it after our succession of hard games, and I suppose it was lucky we got off as well as we did. Indiana, which always plays its best against my team, deserves a world of credit."

Coach A. A. Stagg's 40th anniversary team won its first Big Ten game by defeating Illinois, 13-6. It was the first conference game won by the Maroons since 1928.

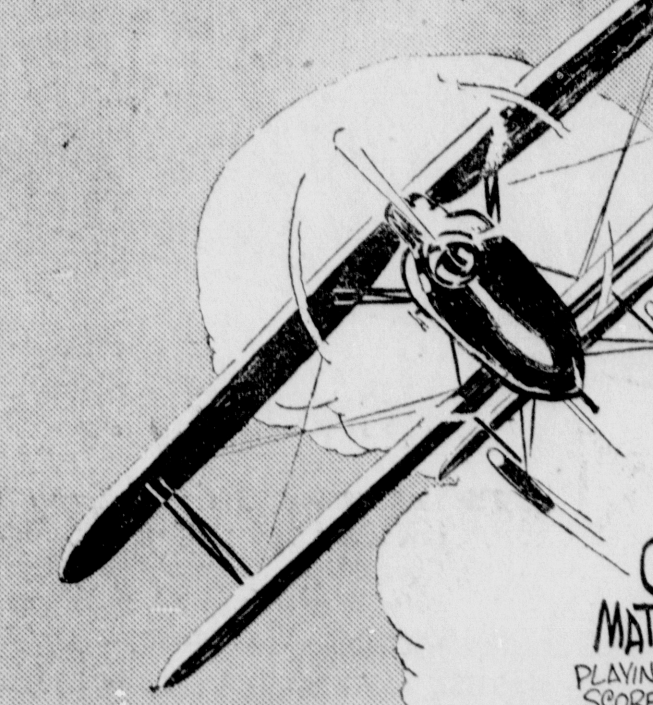

Two blocked punts enabled Ohio State to win from Wisconsin, 6-0, and tie Michigan and Purdue for second place. Purdue won its homecoming game from Iowa, 22-0.

Outside the conference, Michigan and Michigan State played a 0-0 tie for the second year in a row, and Minnesota's second and third teams trounced Cornell college, 47-7.

STAGE ATTRACTIONS ADDED TO FEATURES IN BENEFIT PROGRAM

Stage entertainment besides the regular feature screen attractions will be booked for the Paramount theatre Thursday, Nov. 19, for local unemployment relief, it was learned today.

The Brainerd City band has offered to play an informal concert on the stage and several acts by Brainerd and community artists are to be volunteered, Harry Greenberg reported today.

Meanwhile the ticket sale is underway but a stimulation is necessary to provide for the maximum amount of the ticket sale.

Every penny of the money derived from the sale of tickets will be given to local unemployment relief. The Paramount and workers are donating expenses and services for the show.

The program will begin at 11:15 p. m. The screen attraction is "The Secret Call" with Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon playing the lead roles.

STAGE ATTRACTIONS ADDED TO FEATURES IN BENEFIT PROGRAM

Stage entertainment besides the regular feature screen attractions will be booked for the Paramount theatre Thursday, Nov. 19, for local unemployment relief, it was learned today.

The Brainerd City band has offered to play an informal brief concert on the stage and several acts by Brainerd and community artists are to be volunteered, Harry Greenberg reported today.

Meanwhile the ticket sale is underway but a stimulation is necessary to provide for the maximum amount of the ticket sale.

Every penny of the money derived from the sale of tickets will be given to local unemployment relief. The Paramount and workers are donating expenses and services for the show.

The program will begin at 11:15 p. m. The screen attraction is "The Secret Call" with Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon playing the lead roles.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

By Martin

WHEN KITTY'S HUSBAND, EDDIE, UNEXPECTEDLY RETURNED HOME FROM A LONG TRIP, A BURGLAR, WHO WAS IN HIS HOUSE AT THE TIME, BECAME FRIGHTENED AND LAMMED RIGHT OUT THROUGH THE DINING ROOM WINDOW

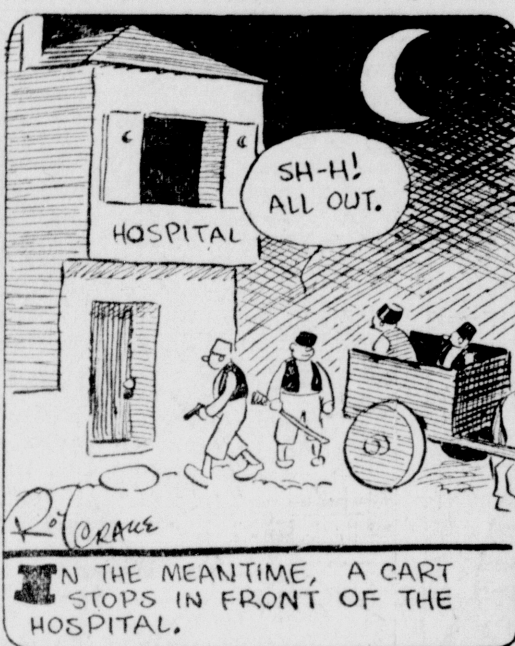

LOOK!! TH' SILVER DRAWERS ARE ALL OPEN

THAT'S JUST A STALL! DON'T TRY TO KID ME

WASH TUBBS

WASH STARTS A LETTER....

IN THE MEANTIME, A CART STOPS IN FRONT OF THE HOSPITAL.

WELL WELL WELL! HERE ARE SOME ASHES, TOO... FRESH ONES... CIGAR ASHES! DID YOU SAY YOU HAD BEEN ALL ALONE?

NO, I DIDN'T! A MAN WAS HERE EARLIER IN THE EVENING, I'VE BEEN WAITING TO TELL YOU ABOUT 'IM'

By Small

THE NEWFANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

THROUGH SPENCE, I RAN ACROSS AN OLD FRIEND OF MINE! STEVE TUTT... YOU'VE HEARD ME SPEAK OF 'IM! WE GREW UP TOGETHER! HE'D LIKE TO MEET YOU, TOO... HE SAID SO

YEAH! IF HE'S SUCH A GOOD FRIEND OF YOURN... AND IF HE WANTS TO MEET ME, WHAT'D HE GROW UP, OUT THROUGH THAT WINDOW FOR, HUH?

KITTY SAID HE WAS A JEALOUS BRUTE

CHICK AND GLADYS: THE ONE BIG HEADACHE IN THEIR FIRST YEAR OF WEDDED BLISS, CAME WHEN CHICK HAD TO TAKE A 20% REDUCTION IN HIS SALARY, BUT THE NEWLY WEDS ARE FAR FROM SATISFIED TO PEACEFULLY TAKE IT ON THE CHIN - AND, THEY ARE OUT TO TRY FOR A COME BACK

WHAT MAKES YOU SO LATE, HONEY?

I HAD T'MAKE ALL ARRANGEMENTS AND GET THE BOSS' WIFE OFF ON HER TRIP

OH GEE, SWEETIE! THAT GIVES ME A HUNCH... LET'S ASK MR AFFEL TO DINNER WHILE HIS WIFE'S AWAY... THERE'S MORE THAN ONE WAY T'GET AHEAD AND THIS IS OUR CHANCE!

YOU MEAN T'ASK THE BOSS HERE FOR DINNER?

WHY NOT? YOU'LL GET AHEAD TWICE AS FAST IF YOU GET IN WITH MR AFFEL, SOCIALLY - THAT'S THE WAY THE ROACHES DO
